Joshua Prince is Chief Counsel of the Civil Rights Defense Firm, P.C. (CRDF), where he concentrates and dedicates his practice in the area of defending his clients' constitutional and statutory rights, under state and federal law. As he saw a need for a firm specifically dedicated to the inalienable right to Keep and Bear Arms, he formed [Firearms Industry Consulting Group[®] \(FICG[®]\)](#), a division of CRDF, where he is chief counsel and represents clients with state law issues in Pennsylvania and Maryland and with federal issues across the United States.

Joshua has represented more than 4000 individuals, 500 Federal Firearms Licensees (FFLs) and several dozen gun clubs/ranges on various state and federal issues. He is an avid firearms collector and target shooter, who owns numerous Title II (NFA) firearms, as well as, Title I firearms. More importantly, he understands the need for a dedicated firearms lawyer who will ensure that the State and Federal Right to Keep and Bear Arms will not be infringed. Joshua has taught numerous Continuing Legal Education (CLE) seminars on Firearms Law for the Pennsylvania Bar Institute, local bar associations and even the National Rifle Association (NRA). He also frequently posts videos on FICG's[®] YouTube Channels – FICG Federal and FICG Pennsylvania – advising individuals, FFLs, and gun clubs/ranges of important firearms law related issues.
